

Where the Journey Starts

Hello, ! I hope you've enjoyed your sneak peek into Stone and Flesh since we last spoke.

Thank you, again, for trusting me with your time and access to your inbox – I know that's a privilege nowadays. As a self-publishing author, your support is crucial to me, and so I want to take care of you! Let me outline what you can expect from me and what's ahead.

I'm a firm believer in only speaking when I have something to say. You'll be hearing from me only when there's news related to my books or other important things you need to know. Since we're at the start of the journey you can expect more frequent updates, but I will try to keep things consolidated where I can.

So what's next? I should, of course, answer the question I've been asked most the past few months!

The Fruit of War, Book 1: Stone and Flesh* will arrive on March 1st 2026*!

The book itself is completed; all that's left are some final preparations! I hope you're as excited as I am. There's a few last things that need to happen before Spring comes, and I'd love your help.

journey to ourselves – if you know someone who loves immersive, epic fantasy, tell them about me and Stone and Flesh!

Whether it's sending them to my website or sharing my cover on your socials, every gesture is appreciated.

I can't say enough how over the moon I am that you're here with me! It's requiring great restraint on my part not to rush getting the key to my world into your hands, but I know time will go by faster than I think.

Until next time, don't forget to tell me what you thought of the sneak peek and most importantly, be well, and take care of each other.

With love and gratitude,

Tamara S. Harker
